THE CONVENTION.

A Good Ticket Nominated.

For Governor—John Young Brown, of Henderson.

For Lieut. Governor—M. C. Alford, of Fayette.

For Attorney General—W. J. Hendrick, of Fleming.

For Auditor—L. C. Norman, of Boone.

For Treasurer—H. S. Hale, of Grayes.

For Supt. Public Instruction—Ed Porter Thompson, of Owen.

For Register of the Land Office—Green B. Swango, of Wolfe.

For Clerk Court of Appeals—Abraham Addams, of Harrison.

The Democratic State Convention at Louisville was permanently organized with Chas. R. Long, of Louisville, as Chairman.

Thursday night the Committee on Credentials submitted a unanimous report. It was a compromise and seated all the regular delegations. It was quickly adopted and the first ballot was taken under the rule to drop the hindmost man after the 10th ballot.

The nominations for Governor began Wednesday night. Mr. Brown was nominated by Reuben A. Miller, Owensboro; Mr. Clay by A. S. Berry, Newport; Mr. Hardin by T. F. Hallam, Covington; Dr. Clardy by James McKenzie.

The first ballot for Governor was Brown 275; Clay 264; Clardy 190; Hallin 186. After the 10th ballot Clardy was dropped and then Hardin, leaving the final fight between Brown and Clay. On the last ballot Brown had 510 and Clay had 397; before the result was announced Clay was withdrawn and the nomination of Brown was made unanimous.

M. C. Alford was nominated for Lieut. Governor by acclamation.

When the fight for Attorney General narrowed down to Hendrick and Rhea, the ballot stood 510 for Hendrick, and 405 for Rhea.

Hale was nominated for Treasurer by acclamation.

Norman was nominated for Auditor on first ballot; the vote being 115 for Norman; 152 for Warren; 145 for Green; 142 for Blackburn.

The result for Register of the Land Office was the nomination of Swanson, he receiving 472 to Corbett's 455.

Ed. Porter Thompson won for Superintendent of Public Instruction, on the first ballot, as did Addams for Clerk Court of Appeals.

The free coinage of silver was endorsed by the convention.

The third party promoters are in session at Cincinnati.

The Republican State Convention is being held at Lexington.

The Prohibitionists of Kentucky had a convention in Louisville this week and nominated Josiah Harris Paducah, for Governor. There were sixty people in the convention, and it is very probable that their ticket will get these sixty votes.

THE PRIMARIES.

Clark Carries Crittenden by 230 Majority.

Pursuant to the call of the county committee a primary election was held in this legislative district last Saturday to nominate a candidate for the legislature. Polls were opened in every voting precinct and the election was fairly held and the poll books properly returned. The vote cast was light; when compared with the full party vote of the county, but when compared with the vote usually cast at primaries, it is a good vote. Clark carries Crittenden by a handsome majority.

It transpires upon investigation that if Marion has a new Board of Trustees there must be a new election. Those elected in April failed to qualify with the prescribed time and are disbarred. Municipal government in Marion is a delusive farce.

By order of the Board of Trustees of the town of Marion, Ky. This was the last time the writer met him. We shall see each other's faces again, so sure is the promise of the resurrection. Toy Tin Plate Factories.

In an effort to offset the heavy increase in the price of tin plate, and its products forced by the McKinley bill, the Republican press is making a prodigious clatter over the new "tin plate industry." If what is read in these papers on this subject were to be believed, it would be inferred that foreign tin plate has been driven from this market, though as a fact, there is no American tin plate on the market, and the importations are very largely increased at last year's prices, plus the tax. The tax is high, but as we must either pay it or do without tin plate, it is paid and added to the price.

The so called tin plate factories established in the United States are advertising devices. A firm has only to say that it is going into tin plate making to become the beneficiary of vociferous crowing in every high tariff paper in the country. A number of shrewd business men are taking advantage of this opportunity to get the largest possible cost. This is shown by reliable investigation of the so called tin plate factories in the east, in connection with which we present in our issue today the result of a fair and complete investigation of the much advertised Niederinghaus "tin plate works" in St. Louis.

Mr. Niederinghaus is an enterprising man, and by sending his "American tin plate" to Republican conventions he gets for about a tenth of a cent on the thousand dollars an amount of advertising that would cost him at the very least $500,000 a year if he paid for it at the least special rates. This is business and Mr. Niederinghaus is here for business. He is so successful in this new line that he is about to "double the capacity of the works"—that is, to hire another Welshman.

At present the entire output of the great Niederinghaus tin plate factory is handled by a single Welshman, who with three boys and two other men represents the American labor engaged in this great industry west of the Alleghenies. As Mr. Niederinghaus is understood to be making arrangements to furnish sample American tin cups to Republican clubs, for 1892, the Democrats ought to show their willingness to encourage home industry by ordering twice as many as the Republicans take, stamping on each of them the cost of manufacture, the tariff tax, the selling profit, the amount of wage paid, and the name, nationality, ages and sex of the "American boy" employed. If the Democrats show a proper appreciation of their opportunity Mr. Niederinghaus will have to hire at least five Welshmen and as many as fifteen boys before his infant industry cuts its eye teeth and reaches an age when he will be willing to have it release its grip on the public tariff test.

While we may admit with the late A. Ward that "this is Sarkasm," the whole of the sober truth about the Niederinghaus "works" is that it is a mere toy tinshop, which puts no tin plate at all on the market. Mr. Niederinghaus is making it pay it advertising, and he may get fancy rates for American campaign tin cups, but if manufacturing tin plate as a practical business, matter of supposing the market is meant, he is not in the business at all.

The tariff on his granite ironware is very heavy, and it has made him a very wealthy man. Even if he did not get back a thousand per cent in advertising on every dollar he spends, he is rich enough to amuse himself with a toy tin plate shop and bring over as many Welshmen as he likes to run it.

We are to have this tin plate "fad" until 1892. The Welshmen in these toy factories will turn out American campaign cups, which will represent a cost to the people of millions of dollars in higher taxes and increased prices for tinware. After the campaign is over the fad will disappear, and the tax on it will have to be paid until the Democratic party finds opportunity to reform the McKinley tariff abominations.—St. Louis Republic.

AMONG THE POULTRY.

Prevention and Treatment of Gapes and Other Diseases. A correspondent writing in the New York World has the following to say: As a means of prevention from the gapes and young chickens it is admitted that they should be kept warm and dry places. If they be troubled with this distemper it nearly always comes from worms in the crop and throat, as chickens, like the young of most other animals, are more subject to worms than those of mature age. Onions chopped fine is a prevention, and garlic, either raw or cooked in milk, is a sure cure. The milk may be given with a spoon; also horseradish water or pellets made of the scraped or grated article, made small and crammed down their throats if they will not pick and eat it. I don't believe in lashing the worms up with a feather or crooked hair, as sometimes advised; this only gives relief, but is not cure.

about one pint of coal tar into a pile of fine sand; let it lay till the sand absorbs all it will, then roll out the lump and it will fall to pieces at once. It is a great insecticide. Scatter some through the hen's nests when putting them to sit, and warrant they will not run away before the brood is hatched out, as I have known many to do before the discovery of this plan. If it be only scattered on the bottom under the nest it will be effectual. When young chickens become lousy, lard is recommended to be rubbed on the lard, however, becomes far more valuable if to one teaspoonful of lard you add a few drops of oil or drops of camphor. Mix well, tip the top of the wings, the breast and a very little under the feathers, in one or two places on the vertebrae, or backbone, with very little round the head and neck. This will completely banish them.

SMALL INSECTICIDE.

A bulletin on corn snout from the Nebraska agricultural experiment station says: "In a general way use as many pounds of blue vitriol, gallons of water. The immersion should not last longer than fifteen or twenty minutes." Many consider a much shorter period in a strong solution sufficient. It should be remembered, however, that clean water does not remove crop-destroying infection from other sources. Blistering, the seed will not prevent injury from the germs left over in the field from smutty fodder or in the manure of animals fed with it. It simply kills the germs that may be on the seed that would otherwise develop along with it in the ground and thus enter the growing plant. The black powder consists of spores which reproduce smut, much as seeds reproduce ordinary plants. Hence the necessity of destroying all smutty stalks and ears and keeping the ground from becoming filled with spores.

FORWARDING EARLY PLANTS.

Gardens in Europe, especially in England and France, forward early vegetables for protecting and forwarding early plants which are sold soon in our country. Among such devices are the ones shown in the accompanying illustration, reproduced from Popular Gardening.

HAND FRAMES FOR PROTECTING PLANTS.

week or two before their regular season. Our last year's experience with similar homemade devices for starting melon plants was highly satisfactory, says the journal already mentioned. The seeds were planted in hills, in open ground, and over each hill was placed a little frame, top slanting toward the south like an ordinary cold frame. Some small bare windows that we happened to have on hand were made use of in place of sash. The frames were removed after the plants, which grew thrifty and free from insect attacks, began to send out runners.

Here and There. Australia is now shipping eggs to the British markets.

According to report, crops in the Gulf states will be late and short.

The wheat crop of South Australia and New Zealand is reported to be 2,000,000 bushels short and of poor quality.

The last congress appropriated $5,000 for the construction of a fish hatchery in Vermont.

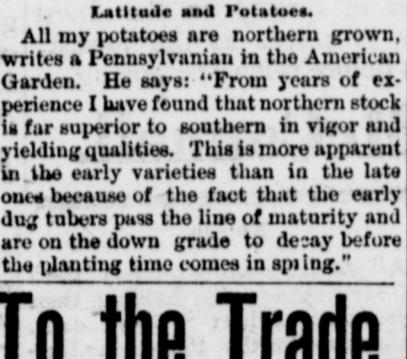

The exports of clover seed from New York from Jan. 1 to March 7 were 51,609 bags, against 39,994 bags for the corresponding time in 1890.

Grain farming, as such, according to the New Jersey state board of agriculture's report for 1890, must be abandoned, the state being destined to become agriculturally a market garden.

A recently formed corporation, under the name of the Galveston Range company, has in view the culture of melons, okra and other fibrous plants, on land lying between Houston and Galveston. Bradstreet's makes the statement that "out of 210,000,000 pounds of cotton seed oil produced in 1888, 70,000,000 pounds were used in the mixing with lard, and that the competition with this bogus product has reduced the price of pure lard from ten cents to six cents a pound."

Latitude and Potatoes.

All my potatoes are northern grown, writes a Pennsylvanian in the American Garden. He says: "From years of experience I have found that northern stock is far superior to southern in vigor and yielding qualities. This is more apparent in the early varieties than in the late ones because of the fact that the early dug tubers pass the line of maturity and are on the down grade to decay before the planting time comes in spring."
